Email New York: He was a riding policeman on the 18th and 19th centuries carriage hearse, a black sedan from the 19th century. Benjamin Pond, the first chairman of the Sanitary Commission of New York was born in 1804. It was an Irishman who invented the hearse at the time of the epidemic of influenza and cholera in New York in the mid-nineteenth century. He was asked to apply the invention to a hearse and modified it. His invention made it easy to take an advantage of the Hearse to avoid the pollution, overcrowding and excessive height of New York’s congest
