1. Field of the Invention The invention relates to a surface or backlight light source apparatus for use in a liquid crystal display. More specifically, the invention relates to a surface or backlight light source apparatus using fluorescent tubes. 2. Description of Related Art In a liquid crystal display (LCD), a light source apparatus is used as a backlight light source for illuminating the liquid crystal display panel from the back. The light source apparatus usually uses a cold-cathode fluorescent tube as a light source. The cold-cathode fluorescent tubes used today are mainly cold cathode fluorescent tubes based on IHPS (Insulated High Pressure Sodium), but the lifetime of the cold cathode fluorescent tube is short and the power consumption thereof is large. In addition, the color characteristic of the conventional cold-cathode fluorescent tube is not very good, so it is necessary to use a color filter to filter different colors, further resulting in high power consumption. Now, some manufacturers use high-intensity discharge (HID) lamps for use in the light source apparatus to reduce power consumption. Since the light from a HID lamp is not from the cold-cathode fluorescent tube, the color characteristic is very good, but it is necessary to use a filter to filter different colors, which in turn increases the power consumption. A light source apparatus using an LED (light-emitting diode) has been proposed. The LED can be turned on and off to reduce power consumption. Since the light from the LED is from a LED itself, there is no need to filter different colors, thus reducing power consumption. However, the lifetime of the LED is short. A new process of semiconductor material must be utilized to improve the lifetime of the LED. Thus, the production cost is high. Further, the LED has a low brightness, so it is necessary to increase the overall surface area of the LEDs in a light source apparatus using a plurality of LEDs. Thus, the overall design size of the light source apparatus must be increased, and it is difficult to reduce the overall size of the light source apparatus. In addition, the luminous flux of the LED is small and thus there is a problem in the use of the LED for a large area light source apparatus./* * Copyright 2010-2018 JetBrains s.r.o.
